

Catherine Allen Latimer

(1896 – 1948)

Howard University

Studied librarianship at Howard University and Columbia University's library school. New York Public Library's first African American librarian. A notable authority on bibliographies of African American life and instrumental in forming the library's Division of Negro History, Literature and Prints. Established and maintained a clippings file to document black history.

